Funding Services

» Margin Trading Facility (MTF)*

Margin Trading allows investors to buy stocks by paying only a fraction of their value, with brokers funding the rest. This leverage lets investors invest more than their own capital, potentially boosting returns.

Increase Investment Capacity

Maximize Market Exposure

Competitive Interest Rates

Seamless Online Setup

» Securities Lending and Borrowing Mechanism (SLBM)

SLBM is a system that lets market participants lend or borrow existing shares. It serves as a tool for hedging risk, similar to using derivatives. The entire process is fully guaranteed after being cleared and settled.

No Physical Settlement

Mutual Funds

A mutual fund is an investment where money from many investors is pooled together and invested in different asset classes such as equity shares, bonds, money market instruments, and commodities. This allows retail investors to invest with small amounts while benefiting from diversification.

Types of Mutual Funds

Equity Mutual Fund

These funds invest in shares of companies, based on the fund's objective. Their main goal is wealth creation or capital growth. Equity mutual funds are classified based on company size or investment theme, such as Large Cap, Mid Cap, Small Cap, Multi Cap, Sectoral, and Thematic funds.

Debt Mutual Fund

These funds invest in fixed-income instruments like government securities, treasury bills, commercial papers, and corporate bonds. They are generally less volatile than equity funds and aim to provide regular income. Debt mutual funds allow investors to invest in smaller amounts and are classified based on investment duration and risk, such as Liquid, Medium-Term, Floating Rate, and Credit Risk funds.

Hybrid Mutual Fund

These funds invest in a mix of equity and debt, aiming to provide both income and wealth creation.

The allocation between equity and debt depends on the fund manager's view. Hybrid funds are also classified based on their objective, such as Equity-Oriented Hybrid Funds and Debt-Oriented Hybrid Funds.

Ways of investing in Mutual Fund

» Systematic Investment Plan (SIP)

A SIP allows investors to invest a fixed amount regularly, usually every month, on a chosen date as per their convenience.

Benefits of investing via SIP

Rupee Cost Averaging

Consistently investing through SIP helps to average out the price at which we invest. The investor doesn't have to worry about entering the market at the correct time or at its low.

Convenience and Discipline

The SIP is automatically debited from the investor's bank account on a fixed date, making investing simple and disciplined without tracking the market.

Power of Compounding

Investing in small denomination over a long period of time results into earning more. Initially this compounding may look small but over a period of time it makes a huge difference.

Low Initial Investment

SIPs allow investors to start investing with amounts as low as ₹500.

» Lumpsum Investment

This method involves investing a single amount in a mutual fund at one time.

Benefits of investing via Lumpsum

Suitable for Long-Term Goals

Lumpsum investments are ideal when the investment horizon is long term.

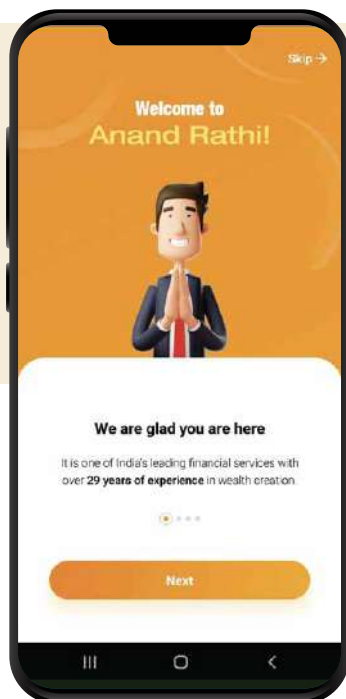

Market Opportunities

Along with SIPs, investors may benefit from investing a lumpsum during market corrections, though timing the market can be challenging.
